

D.C. LEADERS IN LAW

RELENTLESS ADVOCATES

When everything is on the line, Rowe, Weinstein & Sohn, PLLC is the DMV's law firm of choice in personal injury and criminal defense cases.

It's hard to say who was most surprised when a young man with serious criminal charges involving police vehicles not only beat the charges but went on to win a life-changing settlement in a suit against the police department. Was it the five officers who Robinson Rowe, Esq., caught lying on the witness stand? Or was it the numerous attorneys who had refused to take the case because it seemed impossible?

"I won't back down from tough cases when people have been wrongfully harmed or taken advantage of," says Rowe, principal at Rowe, Weinstein & Sohn, PLLC (RWS). "The more overwhelming the challenge appears, the more I enjoy helping clients get the results they deserve."

Rowe's aggressive and relentless approach, coupled with his extensive knowledge of numerous legal fields, place him among the most prominent legal luminaries. For eight consecutive years, he has ranked among the National Association of Distinguished Counsel's Top One Percent, the National Trial Lawyers Association's Top 100, and the American Academy of Trial Attorneys' Premier 100 Trial Attorneys. He is also a Lifetime Charter Member of Best Attorneys of America® (Rue Ratings) and was named a top-rated car accident and criminal defense attorney by Super Lawyers®.

Seamless Synergy

Having assembled an impressive team of litigators with extensive experience in trial, appellate, and arbitration matters, Rowe is joined in practice by principal Christina Shin and senior litigation associates Elizabeth Kwon, and Patrick Flores. The RWS team's experience allows them to provide world-class representation in an incredibly wide range of legal areas including business litigation and transactional services, corporate law, criminal defense, entertainment law, personal injury, medical malpractice, project finance, real estate, trusts and estates, and consumer law.

"We provide invaluable legal continuity," explains Rowe, whose clients include celebrities in film, music, sports, and the performing arts.

This provides a tremendous advantage because we control the strategy for overlapping issues. For example, after successfully representing falsely accused clients, the team is ready to immediately file suit for damages and expenses.

The earlier RWS can step in, the better, so Rowe strongly recommends clients seek effective counsel as early as possible. Evidence must be preserved, witnesses need to be located, and just as importantly, you need someone who will fight for you. The initial assessment is free of charge, and complainants pay nothing if there is no recovery.

"No one can guarantee an outcome," says Rowe. "But we promise that no one will outwork us, and we will passionately protect your rights. We won't leave any stone unturned."
